2) Histoires de l'UNESCO (1945-2015)

Au cours de ces dernières années l'histoire internationale a connu un intérêt général et scientifique accru. C'est en réponse à ce développement historiographique qu'une nouvelle revue numérique, INTERNATIONAL HISTORIES / HISTOIRES INTERNATIONALES, a été lancée et proposera un espace pour une nouvelle histoire internationale que s'intéressera au passé, présent et avenir de la société civile globale, la sphère publique internationale, les institutions internationales, le globalisme et l'internationalisme. Ses éditeurs seront Glenda Sluga, Poul Duedahl, Ibrahima Thioub, Jean-François Sirinelli, Akira Iriye et Jens Boel.

Le premier numéro spécial de la revue sera consacré à l'histoire de l'UNESCO à l'occasion du 70ème anniversaire de l'Organisation en novembre 2015. Des chercheurs du monde entier sont invités et encouragés à soumettre des articles. Dix contributions maximum seront sélectionnées pour publication. Les articles proposés pourraient concernés tous les thèmes et toutes les périodes de l'histoire de l'UNESCO.

Chaque article doit inclure entre 5 000 et 10 000 mots et peut être écrit soit en français soit en anglais.

Le numéro spécial sera rédigé par le professeur Poul Duedahl et l'archiviste en chef Jens Boel. Il sera présenté au Congrès international des sciences historiques qui se tiendra à Jinan, Chine, en août 2015. Les articles ainsi que toute question devront être adressés directement aux éditeurs, Poul Duedahl: duedahl@cgs.aau.dk ou Jens Boel: j.boel@unesco.org.

Data limite: 15.Janeiro.2015

3) The Sea in World History: Exploration, Travel, and Trade

Seeking academic contributors for The Sea in World History: Exploration, Travel, and Trade, a two-volume reference scheduled for publication by ABC-CLIO in 2016. Organized chronologically and geographically, it will cover from antiquity to the present and include 2000-word narrative essays on particular world regions, nations, and cultures, and numerous shorter entries on significant events, people, ports, mercantile and shipping companies, ships, and other topics related to maritime history, the sea, and seafaring.

If you would like to contribute please contact the editor, Steve Stein, at sstein@memphis.edu for the entry list. Please include your CV and a short statement of your interests and expertise. Most entries will be due between January and June, 2015. Contributors will receive free access to the electronic version of the book. Those whose entries total 4000 words will receive a hardcover copy of the book.

- 1) Applications for the EUI Doctoral Programme
The EUI is looking for highly motivated and qualified candidates to further complement the already outstanding quality of its current scholars. 160 grants are available for a fully funded PhD programme for the best students residing in the EU.

Having exclusively focused on postgraduate studies for more than 40 years, the EUI offers one of the world's largest doctoral and postdoctoral programmes in the social sciences in a setting that combines excellent research supervision with numerous opportunities to participate in cutting-edge research. Home to an intellectual community of more than 900 scholars from over 60 countries, the EUI has an excellent record in job placement and alumni careers: 69% are employed in academic positions, 19% have jobs in the private sector or in national governments, while 12% work in international organisations. In general, over 30% of all EUI alumni now occupy senior positions in their chosen career paths.

Sending your most valuable candidates to the EUI's PhD programme will reflect positively on the quality of your institution, since many EUI researchers go on to become faculty members of elite universities, both in their country of origin and around the world.

You can find more information on research themes, application requirements, grants and eligibility on our website. Please do not hesitate to contact us for more information at the following address: applyres@eui.eu
